

CELINA TENT TAICANG CO., LTD

About Us:

Celina Tent is a world leader in manufacturing fabric products and distributing event equipment. It's our mission to provide friendly customer service and quality products to an ever-expanding world. With primary sales driven by our 24/7 website, GetTent.com, we've been able to create informative and easy-to-use websites geared toward maximum customer satisfaction. The Celina Team is devoted to using state-of-the-art equipment, sourcing the highest quality materials, constantly improving our manufacturing methods and processes, and employing the best in motivated workers.

Today, Celina's focus is on 3 main areas:

E-commerce: We strive to simplify the purchasing of quality products, including tents, shelters, and canopies through our integrated 24/7 sales website

Manufacturing: Innovative and efficient processes drive our ever-improving work flow, meeting the industrial fabric needs of commercial, industrial, governmental, and defense industries.

Printed Products: More specialized products, printed with custom or stock graphics to meet the needs of any situation, are a growing sector of the fabric product market.

People:

Every company's success can be directly attributed to the efforts of each and every worker that contributes to the effort. As a family-owned business, Celina likes to make sure that every worker feels welcome and is given every opportunity to achieve their full potential.

At Celina, we like to think of each and every employee as a major contributor to our ever increasing success. Whether you're located in our Customer Support division located in Lucena City, Philippines, our Taicang Production Facility in Taicang City, or the US Headquarters in Celina, Ohio, your individual effort is what makes us one of the largest and fastest-grown companies in the fabric product business.

Production and Distribution Sites:

Celina has established itself as a leader in tent and fabric product innovation, combining modern equipment and software to make the highest quality products while remaining competitive through economical engineering to ensure quick manufacturing and product delivery.

Main Facility- Celina, Ohio

The main manufacturing campus at Celina is an 8,350 square meter (89,000 square foot) facility housing engineering and sales offices in addition to cutting, printing, and manufacturing divisions. The main hub of our company, the main facility also houses our quality-assurance lab.

Distribution Center

As of 2017 Celina's primary storage and distribution will be moved to a new 9,030 square meter (97,200 square foot) Distribution Center, built adjacent to the main manufacturing campus. Previous warehousing was located in the nearby town of Coldwater, Ohio, having only 5,945 square meters (64,000 square feet) of storage space, which we've since outgrown.

European Distribution Center – United Kingdom

Early 2016 saw the opening of Celina Tent Europe Ltd., our main distribution center for all European sales headquartered in the UK. Stocking all of our most popular items, this center allows us to provide our high-quality event tent systems at affordable rates. Any items not kept in stock are shipped from our US Distribution Center for accurate processing and tracking.

Celina Tent Taicang, Co. LTD

Our new facility with additional space and better organization is the support base for our standard lines of all-white event tent tops. The entire facility covers 4,406 square meters (50,000 square feet) of manufacturing space, bolstering our constant need for our products in the highest demand.

History

The business that would become Celina Tent began as a small hardware store in the 1922, evolving into a tent rental company by 1996 that served the small town of Celina, Ohio and the surrounding areas. Finding consistent quality product became a forefront issue, culminating in the development of a manufacturing division that was able to produce the styles and quality of event tents that would serve a rental industry well. As a niche that needed to be filled, Celina sold off the rental business and moved into the manufacturing of quality fabrics from then on.

With a web presence to promote our products since the year 2000, Celina continues to improve and grow in our manufacturing capabilities. With our e-commerce site launch in 2002, Celina grew enough to launch a China-based manufacturing facility in 2011, along with Customer Support Services developing in the Philippines and the opening of the European Distribution Center in 2017.

Celina Tent Taicang, Co. Ltd. is 100% owned and operated by Celina Tent, Inc., and is dedicated to the continued production and development of our most popular lines of event tent tops. Products created at the Taicang Facility are shipped worldwide to customers who continue to delight in our enduring guarantee of quality and economical fabric products.

Process:

As a supplier of tents and fabric products, our main business strategy hinges on two aspects: distribution and manufacturing. Dealing with manufacturing, Celina uses all of its resources to ensure that new designs and improvements on existing products are the more efficient to produce, economical to sell, and the highest quality to keep our customers happy. With advanced CAD (Computer Assisted Drawing) software combined with CNC (Computer Numerical Controlled) cutting centers, we're able to not only quickly create our products but to cheaply develop new ideas.

Product distribution, the reselling of pre-existing items, allows us to become a single-stop vendor for all types of event equipment. Combining lighting and seating with the standard array of tent styles gives us the chance to offer so much more to customers – whether they are stocking an event center or simply outfitting a small gathering.

With the combined forces of distribution and manufacturing, our customers can get the best array of quality items for the most economical pricing.

Products:

Any fabric product sold by Celina is created in one of our two manufacturing facilities: the main facility located in Celina, OH and the Taicang Facility. Designed and tested by our on-staff engineers, Celina's fabric products are held to a higher standard to ensure that the end user is completely satisfied with each and every product that ships from our distribution center.

Ranging from event and party tents to military and humanitarian shelters, Celina's products have been used around the world in every calling and situation. We continue to push our product lines to meet the demands of our customers, with growing custom-printing processes and intuitive instructions. Our industrial applications, including storage shelters and ducting capabilities, are developed in tandem with our other fabric products, allowing us to combine work space and tried and approved processes.

Celina also distributes a wide variety of products in addition to our fabric items, including tables, chairs, lighting, tent event installation equipment, printed flags, and table covers.
